AMY C. WANINGER TO PRESENT AT INDIANA UNIVERSITY SUMMIT FOR WOMEN IN TECHNOLOGY

Waninger to speak on diversity in professional networking

Bloomington, IN, February 16, 2018– Indiana University’s Center of Excellence for Women in Technology (CEWiT) has invited alumna Amy C. Waninger to present at the fifth annual CEWiT Summit, to be held March 23 – 24, 2018. Waninger’s presentation is entitled “Networking Beyond Bias: How to Break Out, Break In, and Break Through.”

The goal of the CEWiT Summit is to provide IU-Bloomington women at all levels (faculty, staff, students, alumnae) from multiple disciplines with the opportunity to learn about and experience technology across a variety of skill levels. The conference is open to everyone. Online registration (<http://bit.ly/2BC1jiX>) is open through Tuesday, March 20.

As a graduate of IU’s Computer Science program, I understand how hard it can be to feel welcome in the tech sector. Young professionals also face a disadvantage because they are not as readily connected to hiring managers, mentors, and others who can propel them forward in their careers. I look forward to helping emerging technology professionals build their professional networks so they can have broad and lasting impacts in their industry.
